AL SMITH BURIES HIS HATCHET

4,700 Attend Four-Day Cooking School Classes

1,400 Jam The Star Auditorium on Last Day; New Records Set; Plans Made To Return Mrs. Campbell for Lectures Next Year.

The eighth annual Marion Star cooking school closed yesterday afternoon with all attendance records broken. Approximately 1,400 women jammed the auditorium, filling all available standing room and lining the walls.

The attendance for the four days reached approximately 4,700 women, and a smattering of men. Gradually, from the opening day when Mrs. Ruth Campbell, the lecturer and demonstrator, proved her excellent qualities, the attendance increased. On several days, women were turned away because of lack of standing room.

Approximate daily attendance figures were Tuesday, 1,000; Wednesday, 1,100; Thursday, 1,200; and Friday, 1,400.

Mrs. Campbell who proved to be one of the most popular leaders ever to teach the cooking school "classes," left last night for Buffalo, N. Y., where she will open a school Tuesday afternoon.

The question voiced to the "class" of wanting Mrs. Campbell returned for next year's cooking school, received vigorous applause. The Marion Star is already making plans to obtain her for the 1937 school.

Yesterday afternoon the women learned the art of making a maraschino cherry cake that could be described only as "heavenly," attractive tomato baskets stuffed with fish, that were not only delicious but would add color to any table, nut cookies with nuts and raisins, and coffee rice.

Mrs. Campbell also suggested a salad for a children's party that not only looked delicious but met all the food requirements for a children's menu. Recipes for short-cake, a sweet salad dressing, and Farm Relief.

President Hoover and Governor Roosevelt agreed on one thing. Both want to help the American farmer. Presidential candidates from the beginning of things have been expressing that ambition.

Mr. Roosevelt had given his program previously, in his Toledo speech. Mr. Hoover gave his program at Des Moines. Comparison is inevitable. Farmers, particularly, want to know what is promised them. The Republican candidate talks cold facts to those by promising maintenance of high protective tariffs on farm products. The Democratic candidate's promise is involved. He proposes to reduce "the difference between the price of the things the farmer sells and the things he buys" by "restoring international trade through tariff readjustments."

This is a long process. If Mr. Roosevelt is elected, it will be interesting to see what success he will have with "readjustments." Tariff is a local issue. A congress working in a Roosevelt administration will consider it with no more breadth of vision than did the congress which made the Hawley-Smoot bill. Perhaps it is realization of that fact which caused Mr. Roosevelt to hedge with a promise that will international trade is restored, farmers will be given "a tariff benefit over world prices which is equivalent to the benefit given by the tariff to industrial products." Thus, he was able to advocate a protective policy and retain the appearance of consistency by calling it temporary.

Both candidates advocate repeal of the price-stabilization provisions of the farm marketing bill.

Both are in favor of land utilization to divert unprofitable land from cultivation.

Both advocate a lightening of farm taxes.

Both promise relief from mortgage payments.

The President, who has been dealing with farm problems directly, goes further than Mr. Roosevelt in his program, however. Most interesting and original of all the points in the Republican program is a recommendation that "any annual payment or the foreign debt be used for the specific purpose of securing an expansion of the foreign markets for American agricultural products." This is another way of doing what Mr. Roosevelt proposes to do by reciprocal tariff agreements when and if there is a revival of international trade. Mr. Hoover's is the more direct method, since it deals with something already established, the debt agreement.

Other points in the Hoover program, not included in the Roosevelt program, are relief for recipients of food and seed loans; credit expansion to make available short-term loans for "production necessities"; stimulation of Reconstruction Finance Corp. loans to processors of agricultural products in order to relieve farmers of their stocks; completion of an inland waterway; governmental participation in all measures which may help to bring about expansion of agricultural markets; and continuation of administration efforts to revive the processes of deflation.

Farmer will examine these proposals carefully, with a view to both their economic and political significance. Farm votes on election day will be influenced by the reaction to the programs presented by the candidates. Despite an unbroken record of election years in which farm relief has been a paramount question, the need for relief is more acute than ever. It is a perennial issue.

Politicians know what is increasingly obvious—that nature, over-production and the individualism of the farmer stand in the way of any permanent improvement of agricultural conditions. Their efforts, therefore, go appropriately under the name of "relief." Such efforts will be a part of politics as long as there are farms and farmers.

New Standard.

When the right kind of college professor takes out an active membership in the Tall Story club months are bound to drop open. Particularly will there be incredulous gawping if he happens to spin his yarn in that considerable section of the club where there is no sliver of distinction between fact and fiction.

Stories of foods imprisoned without food and water for long periods of time are as vital to story tellers as the white rabbit is to the occupation of false might. They have been worn thin with retelling. Even their interesting and ingenious variations fail to save them.

In the course of a year a dozen or more are bound to show up. This food was placed in a cornerstone a quarter of a century ago. When the building is torn down he jumps out, apparently none the worse for his solitary confinement. That food was imprisoned in a wall. Another is found imprisoned in a rock. It is a great theme.

Most recent of the food stories is about a hairy blue American (food story tellers please copy) which has been meditating in a canyon for 23 years in the state of Pennsylvania. When released, as in the uninteresting custom of imprisoned foods, it blinked, coughed a little and hopped briskly away to freedom.

Enter here the right kind of college professor—a certain Mr. William Alexander Campbell, who teaches Wesleyan young ladies the true facts of art and archaeology. In the recent excavation of a Greek theater in Corinth, this gentleman relates, two bones which had been imprisoned in a rocky chamber hopped out, blinked, coughed a little and dashed out to say just what the world had changed.

They had been in involuntary retirement since some time in the first century.

Thank you, professor. You have qualified for membership. Your story sets a new high standard for improbable veracity. It should discourage second-raters from reckless attempts.

Woe to the Intercessor.

The fact that neither of the parties directly concerned is satisfied with the Lytton commission's report on Manchuria probably is a sign of the commission's reasonableness. When did an intercessor ever receive thanks for settling a quarrel?

Japan has added formal rejection to the informal disapproval of the report it made known immediately after its publication. It has been declared unworthy of the serious attention of Japanese officials. It will not be permitted to have any influence on Manchurian policy, therefore.

China's reaction is given by the minister of foreign affairs in the Nanking government. That official, in a carefully worded statement published through the Chinese legation in Washington, expresses of itself approval. He is interested chiefly in two of the report's deductions. The first is that Japanese military operations in Manchuria were unjustified. Second is that Manchukuo was not created from a genuine and spontaneous independence movement.

Unofficially, and probably more honestly, Chinese reaction to the report is anything but favorable to its deductions and recommendations. Political groups opposed to the government are bitterly disappointed because the commission did not recommend that the League of Nations order Japan to evacuate Manchuria under threat of combined action by the world's armies and navies.

This comes close to being a Gilbert and Sullivan touch to a difficult situation. How happy the League of Nations and its prominent member, France, would be if the world's armies and navies could be moved by an order from Geneva. The uncomfortable fact is that the league's bluff has been called by Japan and there is nothing to do about it. An intercessor runs the risk of having both parties turn on him, the stronger one in fury and the weaker one in disgust. That is approximately what has happened as a result of the league's attempt to settle the standing dispute between Japan and China.

An Old Custom.

New York's gangsters. It is reported, have a new way of keeping their pocketbooks filled these days. They arrange a benefit; it doesn't matter much for whom or what. Then they sell tickets, in sizable blocks. The benefit may or may not be staged, once the money is collected from unwilling but helpless patrons.

There is nothing new about the scheme, of course. Like every other device of the criminal element to prey on society, it has been tried before. If the gangsters have success with it, however, they can point to established precedent in levels of society forbidden to them.

Employment of coercion to sell tickets to benefits doesn't need to include a threat to physical well-being to fall within the limits of the term. There is moral coercion as well. Many a shaky benefit has been pulled out of the fire, thanks to it.

A pretty young woman selling tickets to a charity ball or a policeman with a handful of tickets to the annual police benefit are exerting coercion on their prospects. An insinuating traffic policeman collecting money in a speed trap arouses more resentment, but that is because his method is cruder. The basic principle is the same.

The benefit game is as old as humanity and as varied as human ingenuity. But it had to wait for the American gangster to go away with superfluities and insure quick results with a gun.

Education: New Style.

Speculation on the effect hard times would have on higher education yields now to preliminary statements of fact. The New York Times, which has made a survey of 21 colleges and universities, reports some of them.

With a few exceptions enrollment has held up better than was given in former estimates. Contrary to the predictions of some, however, it has not exceeded that for more prosperous years.

A proper deduction seems to be that a larger number of students desiring to share in the educational advantages of academic training has failed to have an effect on enrollment because of a still larger number unable to finance an education. In public school systems, where cost to the individual is not a factor, enrollment has increased, true to expectation.

A general tendency has been for students to prolong their work. First year enrollment increases are not an great, in proportion, as increases in the number of graduate students registered. There is no temptation to take the plunge into the cold world these days until necessity gives a shove from the rear.

Without exception, college and university heads are hopeful of a sobering influence which will strip some of the tinsel from campus life, revealing to an increasing number of students the sounder advantages of attending college to study.

Most interesting of the corroborations supplied by the facts is that one for the prediction that students would turn away from technical training courses to cultural courses. A student's foresight these days must be unusually keen if it can show a direct dollar and cents return for his classroom efforts. The conception of education as a means to an end has been turned upside down by the ruthless sweep of unemployment, which in so many cases has obliterated the end. The university of hard knocks, which taught its pupils only what they could learn by experience, yielded to a university which tried to make a short cut through experience. Now, for better or worse, American students are entering a period when more of them will be able to admit that they are interested in learning for learning's sake.

Nothing Venture

by Patricia Wentworth

(Copyright, 1932, Lippincott)

Forty-one—
"What to it?"
Mrs. Mellish reinforced her dignity. This wasn't any way for a mistress to behave, and she didn't hold with it.
"You know something—"
"Indeed, ma'am—"
"Yes, you do." The urgency of the tone melted into appeal. "Oh, won't you tell me?"
Mrs. Mellish sat up a little more stiffly.
"If I may put the question, ma'am—what makes you think as I have anything to tell?"
"You have—haven't you? I want you to tell me what it is. It may seem an important thing to you—it may even seem a very, very little thing—and you may have some reason for not wanting to tell me; but won't you please put all that on one side and just tell me what it is? We've got nothing to go on, and it's like being shut up in a pitch dark room—even the least glimmer of light might show us where the door is. Don't you see that?"
There was another pause, and Mrs. Mellish said:
"No, ma'am."
The tears rushed into Nan's eyes. They were so hot with anger that they blurred there. She stepped back because the impulse to take Mrs. Mellish by those plump cushioned shoulders and shake her until her eyes bulged and her teeth rattled was simply overpowering. After a moment she said:
"You do know something—I know that you do! Why won't you tell me what you know?"
The subtle air of offense which had accompanied Mrs. Mellish to this interview became more noticeable. It wasn't for any one that knew her manners to color up and behave hysterical like Mrs. Weare was doing. Mrs. Mellish thanked Providence she was not as other women were. She thanked Providence that she'd been brought up respectable. At her husband's funeral she had shed a widow's decorous tears, but she had been careful not to let them spoil her make-up. She despised Nan a good deal for her changing color and the quiver in her voice. She did not speak.
Nan went back to her chair and sat down. It was too good appealing to Mrs. Mellish. She knew very well that she was being despised, and the Forsyth pride suffered her back. She allowed the silence to lengthen. Then she said, in a voice which Mrs. Mellish had not heard before:
"I'm waiting."
"I beg your pardon, ma'am?"
"I'm waiting for you to tell me what you saw or heard on Tuesday night." Nan's voice had no quiver in it now. It was hard with authority.
Mrs. Mellish looked up, a little surprised, and met steady eyes with something behind them that demanded an answer. The change flurried her a little. Unconsidered words sprang to her lips.
"Nothing that was to say anything, ma'am."
"Then you did see something?" Mrs. Mellish recovered herself. "I couldn't say, ma'am."
"I think you must say," Mrs. Mellish bridled.
"I'm sure I'm the last to keep back anything as would be of any help," she said. With the fingers of one hand she pleaded a fold of the white linen handkerchief on her knee.
"Yes, what did you see?"
"I'm a poor sleeper," said Mrs. Mellish, "and when I don't sleep, it's my habit to make myself a cup of tea."
"Yes?" said Nan.
"I'd run out of tea," said Mrs. Mellish. "I make so bold as to keep some handy—I've a caddy that was given me by Mr. Weare for the purpose. Tuesday night, my caddy was empty, and I went down to the kitchen. It might have been 9 o'clock or thereabouts."

"Yes?" said Nan. "On or about?"
Mrs. Mellish meant to take her own time.
"I went down the backstairs, and so I come up. I had my candle in my hand, and when I came up to the second floor, the door through to the landing was half open. I put my hand on it to bring it to, and I heard a door open along the corridor."
"Yes?" said Nan. "What does that mean?"
"It was Mr. Jervis' door—Mr. Weare, I should say—so I blew out my candle, it being an awkward time of night to meet a gentleman, and me in my dressing gown."
"Yes?" said Nan rather breathlessly.
To Be Continued.

The Stars Say—

For Sunday, Oct. 9.

SUNDAY'S horoscope is an excellent one for all cultural, literary, mystical and occult matters and for dealing with superiors, who may feel friendly enough to grant favors, increase of salary, or other testimonies of preference. It is a time for seeking promotion, for renewing contracts, writing, and for all metaphysical vocations or avocations. Independent thought and action should dominate. Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of splendid opportunities, with promise of promotion, increase, preferment or other distinction from the hands of employers. Business, especially of a literary nature, publishing, promotion, and newspaper work should flourish. A child born on this day should be especially equipped mentally, intuitively, and inventively to attain signal success.

Notable nativities: Almer McPherson, evangelist.

For Monday, Oct. 10.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast may not be read as a particularly happy one, although one may hold his own in a business way by rigid application and industry. The private affairs may give concern and there may be either entanglements, in harmony, disappointments and sorrow in the romantic relations. There may be annoyance or loss of prestige through secret attack or report.

Those whose birthday it is are likely to have a year in which they will hold their own through plodding along in business with persistence and hard labor, but they will be disposed to dwell on anxieties, disappointments or sorrows of a personal nature. They may suffer in their affections or be prone to folly in this direction. A child born on this day may be industrious and diligent, although its sympathies, kindness and affectionate nature may bring sorrow to its life, unless it definitely determines to conquer this.

Notable nativities: Helen Hayes, actress.

Minister Is Speaker.

The Men's Bible class of Calvary Evangelical church met Thursday night with Irey Banks of south of Marion. Rev. H. H. Maxwell of Grace Evangelical church spoke on "Get the Man," stressing the building up of the Sunday school class. The men will meet again in December.

Books of Bible Studied.

The Ladies' Bible class of Forest Lawn Presbyterian church met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Edith Torrance of East Center street. The meeting was in character of Miss Genevieve Hummer. The time was spent in studying the books, Corinthians and Revelation. A meeting will be held Nov. 3 with Mrs. Esther Smith of Wilson avenue.

Pageants Must Be Staged Despite Cold and Scarcity of Attire, Will Discover

BY WILL ROGERS

WELL, all I know is just what I read in the papers, or what I saw here and there. There is an awful lot to be said for it, if you just sit on the side lines and look on. The Pageants never were in a bigger bubble.

A few weeks ago when candidate Roosevelt was out here you never saw such a bunch of Democratic outsiders. You see out here in California it used to be hard to score up a Democrat, and when you did he was scored sure enough. But now they are showing their heads shamelessly. Why you would think the rascals were the salt of the earth the way they acting up.

But it was a big time for em. Folks did give Mr. Roosevelt a fine reception, and a mighty good time was indulged in by practically all. The movies turned out and gave a big night for him, not because they were going Democratic. They're a little of everything, and most of us not much of anything. We are all interested in our cultural things. Don't that sound like a real artist? Most of us don't even know who is running.

Parade New Pageants

In fact, who is running? Well, Mr. Roosevelt said he was, and the way they cheered I think he was. "I don't really mean 'em," I had nothing to do with it—but they did put on a fine show for him. They had what they call an electric pageant. That seems to be the "old" now is a pageant. It used to called just a parade, but now it's a pageant.

Now here is a kind of a joke on us that I don't know if it's ever leaked out or not. We had about 15 beautiful floats with girls just "stream" all over em. You would naturally say "Why those floats cost a lot of dough." And they did. That is they did when they were first used. They were built by somebody, I don't know who, but they were built for the Barlow Convention and parade in Frisco, which was held a short time before, and we just hired em. If there had been any Frisco folks in the audience it would have looked like old home week to em, but that's one thing there is never any Frisco folks down this way. Here and Death Valley is two places Frisco folks seldom ever go. To them one is just about as desolated as the other.

Floats Move New Labels

Courtesy we took the old floats and changed the name on 'em. Where one up there might have been christened "The Progress of Beauty of something, why we had Laurel and Hardy on it and called it "Laughter Will Pay." For instance, up there one was all decorated with angels and called "Virtue and Beauty intact." Why down here it was loaded with Hollywood extras dressed as firefighters advertising Sam Goldwyn's picture, "The Kid From Spain." Where they had featured beauty where we had combined it with a slight tinge of advertisement and had blended beauty and commerce. But it was done mighty cleverly. But Frisco had made it possible and we want to thank em for it so they can consider this official.

Then they had some polo games. They weren't so hot on account of the size of the field, and they should have used an indoor ball, which is bigger and the people could have seen, and also that the players could have too. Then a few stunts of a rodeo that was put on by Tom Mix, Boot Gibson, and all our wild west boys. It was very good. The speaking was short and not "so hot" either. But we all did the best we could. It was for a good charity cause, and the audience was (liberal) and lenient.

Screen Stars in Show

We had a lot of screen stars there. None of Metro's, for Louis B. Mayer is a staunch Republican

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADRIAN GARRISON

Mary Underwood in Heart of a Wife. When the signal of Mickey's Whirling Motor is heard. Exactly on Time.

THE whirling noise to the left of us grew steadily louder, and there came from the lips of the three men near me an echo of the name I had breathed to myself, not daring to speak it aloud.

"Richard!" My father spoke the name with relief.

"Dick!" Hugh Grandland said, and there was in his voice something that told me the long-awaited signal was like the cutting of the tape which sets sprinters on their way.

"The Dicky-bird!" and on time to a split second, I'll radio the world! Harry Underwood's whisper had all the quality of a jubilation shout, and as I saw him raise his radioluminated wrist watch to his eyes and stand silently counting, I thrilled to his joyful, affectionate peep in his best friend's achievement.

She is just up there to set naked, and hope that she is not trodden by the end of the journey. They are not really "Pageants." They are early stages of pneumonia. They are endurance contests, in so far as how much a girl can stand and suffer herself off the sea. It is like that to just right up these old fat sprinters' allies. They sit there in their warm overcoats and delight on betting when the girl will turn to an icicle. A "Pageant" is a collection of bare skin, surrounded by plenty of electric light bulbs.

Oh, yes, there is a P. S. A. guy tried to jump a horse through a hoop of fire. The horse wouldn't jump, and the man was without a shadow of a doubt the worst jumping horse rider in the world. He finally walked the horse up to and forced him into it. The horse kicked the whole contraption over and fell in the fire. The man got no burns, much to the disgust of 50 thousand people.

The Campaign Puzzle

Study Past State-by-State Votes in Making Your Forecast

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the eighth of 16 articles showing how the states voted in the 1928 presidential election and pointing out developments since.)

Nebraska's political record is one of contrasts. The state was a center of the populist movement in the nineties, and was the home of William Jennings Bryan, to whom it gave its vote in each of his three campaigns. In 1912 and 1916 the state voted for Wilson. In the last three presidential campaigns it has voted Republican.

MEXICA, CAL.—The first meeting of the Mexican P. T. A. was held at the Hotel California on Thursday night, Oct. 6. The meeting was held in the ballroom of the hotel and was attended by a large number of guests. The program consisted of a musical number by the Mexican P. T. A. band, a play by the Mexican P. T. A. troupe, and a dance by the Mexican P. T. A. dancers. The meeting was a great success and the Mexican P. T. A. band and troupe were well received.

Ohio State-Indiana Tilt Tops Classy Ohio Grid Slap

SEVERAL OTHER GOOD CONTESTS BILLED ON BUCKEYE GRIDIRONS

St. Xavier Loses to Oglethorpe in Friday Night Clash; Wittenberg Wins.

By The Associated Press
Football swung into mid-season form on Ohio college fields today, after introduction last week and last night.

The Ohio State-University of Indiana game at Columbus topped the menu for Ohio football fans today, but there were numerous good games in other parts of the state.

Perhaps the most outstanding of last night's battles was the defeat of St. Xavier by Oglethorpe of Atlanta, Ga. The Cincinnatians were downed 7 to 0, after fighting doggedly to halt their brilliantly playing opponents.

The University of Dayton helped itself to a third victory of the season by a one-touchdown margin over the U. S. Marines of Quantico, Va., 21 to 14.

Baldwin-Wallace, undefeated for two seasons, was held to a scoreless tie by John Carroll in Cleveland.

Wittenberg defeated Denison, 22 to 0, in a game marked by frequent fumbles. Muskingum won from Mount Union, 6 to 0.

Four Ohio teams went beyond the confines of the state for games today, and all of them appeared to be faced with hard battles.

Ohio Wesleyan tackled Berea, Bluffton went to Richmond, Ind., to play Earlham, Cedarville played at Fairmount, W. Va., and Keopon opened its season at Hobart, N. Y.

Carnegie Tech came to Cleveland, figured to beat Western Reserve. Butler was scheduled for a night game in Cincinnati's field.

City College of Detroit invaded Toledo university, and Ohio university was bent on Franklin. DePaul journeyed to Oxford to meet Miami, and Bluefield was scheduled with Wilberforce.

Competing for Cleveland's interest in the Carnegie Tech-Reserve contest was a battle between Akron university and the Case scientists, both undefeated.

In other games today, Berlin was at Marietta, Capital at Hiram, Heidelberg at Wm. Pitt, Wilmington at Rio Grande, Otterbein at Kent, and John Marshall college of Cleveland at Findlay.

A deposit of a heretofore unknown mineral, that is rich in uranium, has been discovered in North Carolina.

NAMED MANAGER

CRONIN SELECTED BY GRIFFITH AS PILOT OF WASHINGTON NINE

Youthful Shortstop Succeeds Walter Johnson; Youngest Major League Boss.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Oct. 2—Joseph Cronin, youthful star shortstop, today was named manager of the Washington, American league baseball club to succeed Walter Johnson.

Clark Griffith, owner of the club, said Cronin had been given a one-year contract.

In naming the young shortstop leader of the Senators, Griffith followed the precedent set several years ago in naming Stanley "Bucky" Harris, young second baseman, as manager. Harris led Washington to its only world championship.

Cronin came to the Senators in 1928 and became a regular that season.

Once a fixture in the lineup he became one of the best infielders in the game, hitting well over 300 and fielding sensationally. Only 26, he will be the youngest manager in the major leagues.

HARDING AND SELBY IN N. C. O. TLT TODAY

Presidents Rated Slight Favorite Over Whippets; Marion Undefeated.

Seeking their third consecutive victory of the season and the first in North Central Ohio league competition, the Harding High football team squared off at Fairground field this afternoon against the Shelby Whippets. Harding holds a slight edge over the Whippets in pre-game dope although a hard battle appears likely.

Coach D. N. Bohyer put his charges through a light but snappy signal drill yesterday afternoon in final preparation for the tilt today. Chick Young did the same with his Shelby lineup.

The game is the fourth of the year for Shelby, the Whippets having lost two contests and tied one. However, Shelby risked tougher opposition than Harding and neither team is conceded much of an advantage in today's game.

Harding is expected to rely on the aerial game for most of its ground gaining. Shelby has stressed the running attack this season with occasional passes.

HEAVY CLOUTERS ON FIGHT CARD TONIGHT IN SHOVEL GYM RING

La Crosse, Maggard Headline 36-Round Program; Start at 9 P. M.

The heavy artillery will be wheeled out tonight at the Steam Shovel gymnasium on West Center street as Jimmy Coaherty turns loose some clouting light heavy-weight fighters in a 36-round boxing program. Most of the principals of the card go in for slugging battling and as a result knockouts are likely to be the rule rather than the exception.

Smoky Maggard and Pete La Crosse are slated for the 10-round feature battle.

These boys both pack dynamite in their fists. Their fight might be termed a "w h a t o f a 'grudge' fight as they met recently with a disputed decision.

Kearns going to Maggard after 10 rounds of furious mauling.

Mean Baumgartner, the "Mauling Jaw" and Jimmy Brown, the "Ace of Spades," will provide the action in the eight round semi-final. Baumgartner and Brown have both been knocking them out right and left within the last few months and are expected to put on a great battle here.

There will be several preliminary matches of four and six rounds, making a total of 36 rounds of flat swinging. The first bout will commence at 9 p. m.

LEONARD BEATEN

Former Lightweight Champ Battered Fasting by McLarnin.

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, Oct. 2—A ring philosopher sat upon the bare rubber table that was his throne, a rugged dressing gown his royal robes.

"It's nice," said Benny Leonard, once one of the greatest of all lightweights, "to lose occasionally. All your pals come in to see you 'they don't bother when you win'."

So it was that the new Leonard, a shadow of the old, shrugged away the first defeat of his comeback campaign, a tumultuous six round, technical knockout at the hands of the first young Jimmy McLarnin, in Madison Square Garden last night.

"I wasn't badly hurt at all," he said smilingly as friends crowded around him. "I'm going to keep right on. I was tired. I couldn't get started. I can lick a lot of fellows, maybe even McLarnin, before I'm through."

Racing Season Ends

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Oct. 2—Horse racing on Chicago's major tracks reached the end of its season in the final day of Lincoln field's 31-day meeting. Most of the horsemen will skip southward tomorrow, but some will remain for at least a part of the 19 day season at Sportsman's park, the half-mile track, which also held at spring meeting.

GREAT GOPHER BACK TO THUNDER AFTER BERTH ON ALL-AMERICAN TEAM

By The Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS—Lighter, faster and admittedly tougher, Jack Manders, Minnesota's candidate for All-American fullback this year, also is right up at the front in the battle for the title of "the hardest man to stop in the Big Ten."

By lighted it is meant that instead of 210 pounds he now weighs only 200.

By faster, let it be known that instead of requiring 11.8 seconds to travel 100 yards in moccasins, he now paces that distance in 11 flat—and sometimes less.

When it comes to toughness, Manders had little room for improvement. He is seldom hurt, but tacklers find that contact with him is something like grabbing onto a wild and unfettered steer.

He is solid, always in condition, strongly built, big-headed.

In Great Shape
When he reported for practice he was weeks ahead of the physical condition he has reported in during the last three years.

He has two years of experience with the regulars packed away among his assets and has learned most of the tricks of defense—in particular, the art not only of knocking down passers by the opposition but of intercepting them and doing something with the ball after he has it.

He won the post of all-conference fullback with plenty to spare last year after sensational work against Northwestern, Michigan, Ohio State and Wisconsin.

He was the most consistent ground-gainer among the Gophers, adding to his plugging talent long-yardage runs made on spurts off-tackle.

Follows Great Pair
Now he is after bigger game—a place on the All-American squad which has drawn heavily on Gopher fullbacks in recent years.

He wants to occupy the shoes of Herbert Joesting, All-American half a dozen years ago when he was piling up yardage for Dr. Clarence W. Spears, and of Bronko Nagurski, who played fullback but was placed on tackle on the mythical team, a position he played equally well.

Guards and tackles not only of Big Ten teams but of South Dakota, Mississippi and Nebraska will have a chance to size up the manner in which Manders thunders ahead on his smash plays this year.

Purdue, Wisconsin, Michigan, Northwestern and Iowa are on the conference schedule of the Gophers.

PLAY FOR TITLE
Final Game Sunday at Lincoln Park in Baseball Tourney.
The final game of the Marion county amateur baseball tournament will be played Sunday afternoon at Lincoln park. Caledonia and Morral will battle it out in the championship battle. Morral will be attempting to add to laurels already won as having captured the championship this summer of the Heart of Ohio league.

The championship tilt will be preceded by a game between the Haugh's Barbers of Marion and Green Camp. The preliminary game will start at 12 noon with the titular contest billed for 2:30 p. m.

THE GUMPS

MIN - I WANT TO READ MY SPEECH TO YOU - I'VE BEEN INVITED TO APPEAR ON A PROGRAM AS ONE OF THE MAIN SPEAKERS - I HAVE CHOSEN FOR MY SUBJECT - "WHAT IS THE MATTER WITH OUR COUNTRY - LISTEN TO IT"

PELLOW CITIZENS - IT IS AN HONOR FOR ME TO BE CALLED UPON TO ADDRESS SUCH A DISTINGUISHED AUDIENCE THAT IS GATHERED HERE THIS EVENING - AND AS I LOOK AROUND AT THE SEA OF FACES -

AND IN CONCLUSION MAY I STATE THAT WHEN YOU CAST YOUR VOTE ON ELECTION DAY - REMEMBER - THAT ANDY GUMP ON THE LEFT HAS PLATFORM STANDS FOR THE RETURN OF PROGRESS TO OUR BELOVED NATION -

WE COMED YOUR SPEECH AND IS DOING ALL OF THE TO SURPRISE YOU -

OH, ANDY - DON'T BE ANGRY - GO ON WITH YOUR SPEECH -

TILLIE THE TOILER

BZZ - BZZ -

WAL I'LL BE STERNALLY JUMPED UP AND JOE-DADDLED

WHY DIDN'T YE SAY SO BEFORE? THERE'S A BIG REWARD FOR YOU!

WE WERE TOO TIRED AND STARVED TO ARGUE

WHERE'S MY CHILDREN YOU OLD SKINFLINT!

HAR - HAR - GOT 'EM LOCKED UP SO THEY DON'T GET LOST!

MY CHILDREN LEFT OUT THIS MORNING - YOU MONSTER! OH, I'LL HAVE YOU ARRESTED!

TOOTS AND CASPER

COULD YOU USE ANOTHER MAN HERE, BOSS? I'D LIKE TO SEE YOU GIVE DANNY HOOPER A JOB! HE'S A CLEVER KID! HE'S JUST 21! A COLLEGE GRADUATE AND MARRIED! IF I WASN'T SURE THAT HE'D MAKE 4000 I WOULDN'T BE RECOMMENDING HIM TO YOU!

WE HAVEN'T ANY VACANCIES NOW CASPER! YOU KNOW THAT!

YOU'VE GOT TWO HUNDRED PEOPLE ON YOUR PAY-ROLL, BOSS, BUT I'M TELLING YOU THAT DANNY CAN DO MORE WORK THAN ANY THREE MEN IN THE PLACE!

IF THAT'S THE CASE CASPER MAYBE IT WOULD PAY ME TO FIRE YOU AND TWO OTHER MEN AND HIRE HIM INSTEAD!

I FINALLY GOT MY BOSS TO PROMISE THAT HE'D HAVE A TALK WITH YOU, ANYWAY, DANNY! I DON'T KNOW IF ANYTHING WILL COME OF IT, BUT I'LL KEEP RIGHT ON PLEADING FOR YOU!

CASPER, YOU'RE A PRINCE! THANKS A LOT! IF HE GIVES ME A CHANCE I'LL MAKE GOOD!

I CASUALLY TOLD THE BOSS ABOUT THE GUY! THE BANKER RECENTLY WHO GOT UP AND YELLED "CASPER FOR MAYOR" YOU KNOW WHAT I MEAN! IT MIGHT PAY HIM TO KEEP ON THE GOOD SIDE OF A MAN WITH A BIG FUTURE LIKE ME!

JUST KIDS BY AD CARTER

HEY - BAG - EAR!

WELL - SHOW ME THE ELEPHANT!

SEE - BACK!

THIMBLE THEATER

JONES YOU STAY BACK AND WATCH THE POWER BOAT - WE CAN'T TAKE NO CHANCES ON LOSING IT

TAKE YOUR TIME AND BE CAREFUL, W.DONT FALL THROUGH THESE OIL ROOFS

WELL, POUR ME DOWN A MATCH! WHAT'S THIS?

HELP - I'VE BROKEN THROUGH POPEE!

OH! I'M STANDING ON SOMETHING SOFT - IT'S - IT'S MOVING!

ANNIE ROONEY

NOW MRS. MEANY - YOU KNOW - QUARRELSOME WILL NOT GET US ANYWHERE - I'VE SEARCHED THE BURG FROM A TO Z - AND THERE'S NO TRACE OF ANNIE!

THAT LITTLE BRAT MUST BE HERE - SHE HADN'T WHEED TO FLY AWAY - WE MUST SEARCH AGAIN!

THE LITTLE KID MUST HAVE KNOWN THAT OLD GLOOM GOT HIS INFORMATION HERE IN ARKVILLE - SHE WOULDN'T COME HERE - I DON'T LIKE THE LOOKS OF MRS. MEANY - BUT SHE HAS PROVED SHE'S THE CHILD'S GUARDIAN - MAYBE, ITS TWENTY TO TELL HERE - WHERE I THINK

GEE, ITS GREAT TO BE! DON'T WORRY - YOU IN JOE - COURSE, I AM! ALON WAGES - BUT I'VE AN DECIDED, MRS. MEANY - NEVER FIND US!

BRINGING UP FATHER

BY GOLLY - THIS POLITICAL GAME IS KILLIN ME - I'M GLAD TO GET HOME TO REST -
